The San Francisco First Chinese Newspaper in America Arrested.

KEOKUK (Iowa) Jan. 5.—(By the Associated Press.) J. H. Wells and W. A. Bell are held under $5000 bonds to appear before the Federal grand jury on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Wells' father was the capital of a merchant ship between San Francisco and China. The son was educated in Japan. The father spent at least $50,000 on him. The son established the first Chinese newspaper in America, published in San Francisco.

The scheme worked by Wells and Bell was to enter into correspondence with the owners of patents, pretending they had an offer of a farm to exchange for a patent. A fee of $25 was required for examination of title, etc. When the money had been sent, the patent was notified that the farm property was poor and this closed the correspondence.

During the special session of Congress there was a protracted fight in the Senate against the confirmation of this class of appointments, not because of objection to the men personally, but because the principle was opposed.

The fight this time will open with the Oregon and Idaho Senators. Both Senators Dolph and Mitchell have said they intend to object to sending appointments from the East and South into their States. It is believed all Western men will support them.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 5.—(By the Associated Press.) Another gang of men were put to work on the arena today, and from this it is evident that the club is very confident of bringing off the fight in this city. The officials say they will on Monday issue a statement disclosing their plans.

Bowden recently wired Gov. Mitchell regarding his position in the arena of a contest. Yesterday he received an answer, but Bowden denies it has any reference to the fight. It was of sufficient importance, however, to call a special meeting of the club, and it is evident the news Bowden communicated to the club officials was not very comforting. The club people are more positive than ever that the fight will take place.

Even money is now offered that Mitchell will not respond in the twenty-first round. Some of this has been taken as the general opinion of the Englishman will make a longer fight.

Sheriff Broward today declared the club people were mistaken if they thought he would stand quietly by and allow the fight to occur in Duval county. "I tell you," said he, "the fight will not take place in Duval county if I can stop it, and I think I can get enough to assist me in preventing it."

The Sheriff is a man of nerve and would not hesitate to shoot in the discharge of his duty. It is reported that the club will select Anastasia Island, opposite St. Augustine, where Mitchell is now in training, as the scene for the contest.

Uncle Sam's Printing Office Turns Out an Interesting Volume.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(By the Associated Press.) The printing office today issued a volume containing the President's special message on Hawaii with the accompanying correspondence asked for by the Senate resolution. It contains reports from Minister Willis not yet published. Among them is one dated Honolulu Nov. 11 in which Mr. Willis expresses the intention of affording protection to the Queen.

"Neither side," says Willis, "has the vaguest idea of the position of our government and consequently no outbreak has yet occurred, though every night is filled with rumors."

Minister Willis says he is inclined to give advice to the Japanese Counsel-General as to man-of-war, but told him that if he requested the United States would extend protection to the Japanese people, provided they were non-participants in the trouble.

In a letter dated November 18 Willis tells a visit from the committee representing the American League to whom he said it was the duty of all Americans at home or abroad to cooperate in executing the will of their government. Nothing was said, however, as to instructions to this government.

The last message from Willis was received December 4, after having received Secretary Gresham's second set of instructions based upon the defiant attitude of the provisional government. Mr. Willis says: "Active defensive preparations have been going on for several days; otherwise the situation is about the same. The feeling is intense but hope to preserve the status until further instructions. The government last Wednesday inquired as to the authenticity of your published letter and the intention of the President. I have declined today to answer. Prompt action is desirable."

LAYING ON OF HANDS

Its Efficacy is Still in Doubt.

A Striking Case at Evangelist Warnon's Meetings.

A Fibroid Tumor Declared to Have Been Removed.

But the Sufferer and the Witnesses Refuse to Give Their Names—Another Woman Says She Has Been Cured.

It seemed for a time probable last evening that the somewhat tardy ends which justice demands in this assumed problem of divine healing, to be reached at last and that fair proof was to be given to a great world of skeptics and of those halting on the verge of belief, that this miracle can now be verified. A great proportion of the people of the world are so constituted that, without human aid, they are unable to see the invisible, working marvels in human flesh through visible means, is open to doubt.

To such proof is necessary, and this proof was claimed to be given last evening. Yet it did not meet the full measure of the miracle.

The house was again packed, and the platform was almost compactly filled with those upon whom the Lord's touch is claimed to have been laid. Evangelist Warnon, rejoicing in the great results of all studies reported as being accomplished through his influence, brought forward a woman who had been a sufferer from an aggravated abdominal fibroid tumor, which had been removed by a physician, and she had received prayer and laying on of hands on Thursday. In order, as he said, to "end this controversy with hostile critics" by throwing light upon her condition before treatment, which was exactly what the public has been desiring—a committee of six ladies was selected from the audience to affirm to the presence of the tumor. Four ladies responded, but one of these being practically too deaf, she was rejected. The three ladies made the examination and reported the facts of the case. The patient had been scrutinized upon her bare flesh, when a tumor the size of a large adult's head was disclosed. The tumor was hard and any further pressure and the skin tightly drawn. After laying on of hands and prayer, examination was again made, and not only the tumor disappeared entirely but the abdomen was soft and yielding to pressure and the skin loosely wrinkled.

It was stated that a physician (name not given) had said that this tumor could only be treated by the removal of a portion of the interior of the abdomen, and that such an operation would be very dangerous. The case was undoubtedly bore, and every seeming of striking evidence, but neither the woman would be examined nor the women who were witnesses desire to furnish their names for publication or to spread the glorious news of so many who are healed. They were brought forward and asked to swear solemnly "in the presence of Almighty God" that the facts above stated were true, and that the "people of God" should be glorified. But by all means the "glory of God" should be given without so much as a reserve where so great a matter is at stake, and where a single word means of converting some one who is just ready to turn from unbelief to belief, and from a man of unbelief to a man of faith.

A little later in the evening a boy who had experienced "healing" for some much more trivial ailment was brought forward and asked to swear that any one might question him who chose, but very few chose.

The evangelist took occasion before the closing of the case, to make a position toward the public with common-sense emphasis—a quality which he uses on occasion. Upon repeating the inquiry which normally follows, he made as to why he treated certain cases in a certain way and not in some other way, he answered with a decided snarl, "because I don't know." The question is therefore settled.

The usual ailments of consumption, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, deafness, blindness, paralysis, old age and kindred afflictions were treated in largely increased

DEAD ON THE DESERT

Probable Fate of S. W. Pratt.

Perished in His Search for the Lost Pegleg.

Last Seen Alive Near the Station of Walters.

At That Time He Was Sick, With but a Small Supply of Provisions and a Canteen of Water.

From all that can be learned it seems very certain that S. W. Pratt has perished on the desert either from sickness or lack of water, while engaged in what has proven a vain search for the lost Pegleg mine.

Pratt is a San Francisco man, a millwright by occupation, though a miner by choice. About two years ago he decided to start for the desert, and since that time has spent a great deal of time in the useless quest. Heretofore he has managed to find his way back to civilization safely, but the last trip has evidently proven his doom.

The first three trips were made by parties who left Salton station and went southward. The fourth trip Pratt made himself, with but an Indian guide to accompany him. The guide deserted him before his destination was reached, and he returned to Salton alone, after much difficulty and great suffering. On his return trip his pack burro died, and he was obliged to carry his provisions and bedding on his back. When he reached Salton he was utterly worn out, and for a long time afterward was too weak to travel. He went back to San Francisco to recuperate, and in March of last year, he started out again for the desert, this time accompanied by a partner. Not being able to find any one willing to make the dangerous trip, he went alone, and since that time his wife in San Francisco has heard nothing from him, and no information was obtainable as to what route he had taken.

Yesterday a Times reporter met John Lang, who owns a cattle ranch out near Salton, and from him learned that when last seen Pratt was alone and sick, but still persistent in his determination to find the lost mine.

"Several months ago," said Mr. Lang, "Pratt stopped at a place about twelve miles from Salton. He had a box of provisions and blankets weighing in all about one hundred pounds. I carried him to a point about twenty-five miles from Salton, where he took a left-hand road to Fish Creek and the right-hand one. He had told me that he expected to find a ledge of lithographic rock somewhere out in the desert, and this well as the lost mine seemed to be part of his quest. Before he left to take the right-hand road I asked him to stay and eat lunch with us, and to this he consented. At that time he complained of being sick and said 'I don't know whether I had better go back to Walters or keep on, I feel awful bad.' He finally concluded to go on after traveling so far and started off. I heard nothing more of him."

In the course of my conversation with Pratt he told me that he had had a French partner called Pete previously, but that they had got into a dispute and separated. The Frenchman, it seems, knew where the lithographic stone ledge was and Pratt feared that he might have laid claim to it. Pratt said that if he had them they would be rich, but he had nothing but his provisions, bedding and a canteen of water. From where he said he was going, there is no water to be obtained near there."

Mr. Lang was certain that if Pratt had gone further down the valley he would have been seen by some of the herders, and he was of the belief that the venturesome miner's bones now lie bleaching on the desert sands.

It was stated that a search party had gone out from this city several days ago to look for the missing man, but this report has not been confirmed.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.

A Well-known Resident of Moneta Seriously Wounded.

News was received from Redondo last evening of a probably fatal shooting affray at Moneta, about six miles from that place, yesterday afternoon, the victim being Dr. Parkinson, a highly respected citizen of Moneta, and his assailant a young man named J. B. Knox, recently from Mississippi. As near as can be learned, Knox claimed that Dr. Parkinson had engaged him to work on his place at Moneta for the ensuing year. His services were not satisfactory, and he was dispensed with. Thursday Knox went to Redondo and wanted to bring suit against the Justice's Court at that place against Dr. Parkinson. The justice refused to issue the complaint on the ground that it was out of his jurisdiction, and Knox left. Yesterday afternoon he went to Dr. Parkinson's place armed with a shotgun. Just what took place is not known, but it is believed that a quarrel ensued when Knox shot Dr. Parkinson, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Last night at 8:30 o'clock Knox went to Redondo and surrendered to Marshal Toyer. He was locked up for the night and will be brought to this city this morning. Knox says that he went to Dr. Parkinson's house to talk over the matter in dispute between them, when the doctor made a threatening demonstration with a Henry rifle, and he shot him in self-defense. This story is not credited, as Dr. Parkinson is quite an old man, and has always been a peaceable, law-abiding citizen. It was reported last night that the doctor was in a very critical condition.

M. S. Hewes's Stock OF FINE SHOES

65c ON THE DOLLAR!

Has been the most successful purchase that we have ever made. It has brought to us the finest of ladies', misses', children's and men's shoes, and the patronage of people who wear this class of footwear. Each succeeding day our sales have been greater as the public have realized the truth of our announcement that we are selling Hewes's stock of fine shoes at 65 cents on the dollar, and seeing the shoes in the possession of people who had purchased them at that price.

Wright & Peters's Ladies' Fine Shoes are the equal of the finest. Dugan & Hudson's Children's Fine Shoes are the superior of any made. J. S. Turner's and J. W. Borden's line of Men's Fine Shoes rank with the best, and buying them at 65 cents on the dollar is an occasion that happens once in a lifetime. Merchants who carry these brands of shoes are generally successful, and it very rarely happens that the public are enabled to buy this class of footwear at these prices.

Gentlemen, you will do well to come in and see these lines, getting the best footwear made at a 35 cents saving on every dollar invested. . . .

OUR GREAT STOCK REDUCING SALE!

WE want to sell all the merchandise we possibly can in the next thirty days. We will name a price that will sell it to those having purchases to make. Our inventory is set for February 1st. It is facts and figures that are appealing to you, not mere verbiage or effort to do business. We are candid when we tell you that we have gone through our stock in every department and have marked the most seasonable goods down to cost and less. We contemplate several changes in our store, the removal of different departments, and these and other things make it imperative that this stock should be reduced.

Come in today and notice the reductions in prices from what they were yesterday; they will be noticeable. Space prevents us from quoting prices in every department. Every customer that came into our Cloak Department was surprised at the startling reductions made in every garment shown. Have reduced prices here from $4 to $20 a garment.

In our Domestic Department you will be able to purchase greater drives than we have heretofore offered at any previous sale. We are moving the reserve stock of Ladies' Underwear from one of our basements to another; thus it is made more forcible to us than otherwise that we are possessed of one-half more stock than we should be, and undergarments will be let out at a very great reduction. Take our word for it, it will pay you to come into our stores whether you have wants or not. The prices we are quoting will tempt you to purchase. In the Household Department we are offering drives because this stock is to be moved to our basement salesroom. In Millinery we are closing out our entire fall line. Felt Hats that were as high as $2.50 are being sold for 25c; Feathers that were as high as $2.50 are being sold from 10c to 50c; Trimmed Hats are being sold at $5 each that sold as high as $20. We are determined that every vestige of Fall Millinery shall be sold or otherwise disposed of before our madame starts for New York to purchase her spring stock.

Dress Goods Dress Goods Men's Furnishings and Boys' Clothing.

We cannot find words emphatic enough to express the reductions that we have made in our Dress Goods and Silk Departments. In Pattern Suits we have lowered the price to the lowest notch of possibility.

Both at our dress goods counter in the center aisle and at our domestic dress goods counter we have placed on sale lines of goods that have sold all the season at 50c to 75c a yard. They comprise all sorts of fancy novelty dress goods, and you certainly must be surprised at the values shown.

54-inch all-wool Striped and Checked Dress Goods that have sold all season from 75c to $1 a yard.

38-inch All-wool French Diagonal Dress Goods in leading street shades. These goods are a bargain at 75c; they were imported to sell at $1.

Fancy Novelty Dress Goods imported to sell at $1.25 a yard; the greatest value that you ever saw shown over a dress goods counter. At this price we have included several lines of 40 to 44-inch All-wool Storm Serges in fancy and diagonal weaves. The French novelty goods come in little pea spots, in hop sackings and in Moire watered effects.

Placed upon our counters as a flyer, a single piece of Black Faile Dress Silk; the price yesterday was $1.50.

On our counters you will find displayed the handsomest line of Novelty Silks that you ever saw slaughtered anywhere at $1 a yard; the goods have been sold all season from $1.50 to $2 a yard.

This is a line of Black Swivel Surahs with colored novelty figures woven in them; these goods have never sold less than $2 a yard.

The items offered above are decidedly the greatest values ever shown over any dry goods counter to be offered to a public at a sacrifice price.

Priestley's 46-inch Black Novelty Dress Goods; candidly worth $2 a yard.

Priestley's Black Dress Goods in novelty designs and in plain effects, in silk warped and wool and mohair; these goods are offered to you away below the cost of importation.

85c—Men's Natural Gray Wool Shirts or Drawers; you never purchased its equal.

$1.85—An elegant line of Cadet Blue Shirts and Drawers; we sold them at $2.

We are also the sole agents for the Lewis Knitting Company, manufacturer of the finest Gents' Knitted Underwear in the market; these goods range from $4 a garment up. To close out these lines we will offer an extra inducement of 10 per cent. discount from the market price of every garment in stock.
